

GIFTED AND TALENTED DAY 2009

Over one hundred students recently took part in a Gifted and Talented Day at Oakmeeds Community College. Normal lessons were abandoned for the day as some of the most intelligent students at the school took part in a variety of specially designed activities. Whilst some students were writing and acting out their own version of Eastenders, others were learning how to make clay pots. A lucky few took part in a whole morning of Maths games, puzzles and competitions.

Gifted and Talented co-ordinator Mick Macve said "Oakmeeds is full of highly intelligent and well motivated students and it is nice to be able to reward them at the end of a hard working and busy year with their own special day".
